

When You Love Yourself

When you love yourself

You realize you are not meant to suffer and you are never alone
As life is nothing but a school in which to learn.
You accept the past for what it had to teach you
Learning from the lessons and thanking the teachers along the way.
Forgiving ourselves for what we have done, the harm we have caused
Letting that go and belonging in the now.

When you love yourself

You learn to forgive those who didn't love you
The way you wanted them to.
They loved according to their own definition
They did the best they knew how
Forgive and release them.
Forgive and release yourself to experience your incredible potential
To live, to love, to learn, to take chances, and to serve.

When you love yourself

You celebrate "what is" and realize
That possibly you are not ready for "what isn't"
We are all Masterpieces in different stages of Manifestation Everything at every moment is exactly as it is meant to be.

When you love yourself

You realize we are all here for a profound purpose
To somehow make this world a better place.
You have come perfectly equipped with the exact strengths
And the courage to challenge your shortcomings
With joy and determination
For you are a unique orchestration of both.

When you love yourself

You are willing to laugh at your fallacies and share your strengths
Taking care of your BEING to ensure maximum energy for all
For all is powerful and all is possible
When you love yourself.

Jamie Mae